2. Third party links

Our websites may include links to third-party advertisers, affiliates, websites, plug-ins and applications. Clicking on those links or enabling those connections may allow third parties to collect or share data about you. We do not control these third-party websites and are not responsible for their privacy statements, notices or policies. When you leave our website, we encourage you to read the privacy notice of every website you visit. We do not accept any responsibility or liability for the privacy policies or notices on third-party websites. Please check these policies before you submit any personal data to these websites.

It is important that the personal data we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your personal data changes during your relationship with us.

4. Our legal bases to process personal data

There are many reasons why we may legitimately collect and process your information and/or personal data (also known as the legal basis), including:

1. Consent

In specific situations, we can collect and process your data with your consent.

2. Performance of a Contract

We may process your information where it is necessary to either; enter into a contract with you for the provision of our products or services; or to perform our obligations under a contract; or to provide you with advice or guidance in relation to our products; or services that are offered by us.

3. Legal obligation

If the law or any regulator in any competent jurisdiction requires us to, we may need to collect and process your data and also provide this to any such regulator.

4. Legitimate interest

We may process your information in the day to day running of our business, to manage our business and financial affairs and to protect our customers, employees and property. It is in our interests to ensure that our processes and systems operate effectively and that we can continue operating as a business. In specific situations, we require your data to pursue our legitimate interests in a way which might reasonably be expected as part of running our business and which does not materially impact your rights, freedom or interests.

Please note that if you do not agree to provide us with the requested information, it may not be possible for us to continue to operate your account and/or provide products and services to you.

5. General information on our record retention policy

Records can be held on a variety of media (physical or electronic) and formats. Retention periods for records are determined based on the type of record, the nature of the activity, product or service, applicable local legal or regulatory requirements. Retention periods may be changed from time to time based on business or legal and regulatory requirements.

We may, on exception, retain your information for longer periods, particularly where we need to withhold destruction or disposal based on an order from any courts or competent authority, or in relation to an investigation by law enforcement agencies or our regulators. This is intended to make sure that we are able to produce records as evidence, if needed to those respective authorities.

15. Security

We take all steps reasonably necessary to ensure that your information and/or personal data is treated securely and in accordance with this Privacy Notice.

We implement strict procedures and security features to protect your information and/or personal data to prevent unauthorized access. Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet sometimes may not be completely secured from any malicious online attack, however, we will do our best to protect your information and/or personal data while we retain it for our purpose.

16. Your rights

We want to make sure you are aware of your rights in relation to the information and/or personal data that we process about you. We have described those rights and the circumstances in which they apply, in the table below and you can contact us at Info@un1ty.io to exercise your rights:

Access - you have the right to access and/or obtain your information and/or personal data that we hold about you.

Rectification - If you believe that any of the information and/or personal data that we hold about you is inaccurate, you have the right to inform us and rectify it.

Erasure - you may request that we delete your information and/or personal data, if you believe that:

- we no longer need to process your information and/or data for the purposes for which it was provided;
- we have requested your permission to process your information and/or data and you wish to withdraw your consent; or
- we are not using your information and/or data in a lawful manner.

Restriction - This right can be exercised under any of these circumstances:

- when you believe that the information and/or personal data that we hold about you is inaccurate and thereafter, we will need time to verify the accuracy;
- we have processed your information and/or personal data unlawfully however, you would prefer to restrict the processing instead of erasure;
- we have requested your permission to process your information and/or data and you wish to withdraw your consent; or
- we are not using your information and/or data in a lawful manner.

Portability - you have a right to receive the information and/or personal data you provided to us in a portable format. This is an extension to your right of access. Please note that this right is only applicable to electronic processing of your personal data and when the information and/or personal data is collected directly from the individual requesting to exercise this right. We will attend to your request only in the event that the information and/or personal data is being processed based on your consent or contractual necessity. You may also request us to provide it directly to a third party, if technically feasible.

Marketing - you have a right to object at any time to processing of your information and/or personal data for direct marketing purposes, including profiling you for the purposes of direct marketing. We do not carry out processing that involves automated decision making that may affect the rights or produces legal effect on our employees, investors and/or customers.

We hope that we can address any concerns you may have, but you can always contact the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) to further inquire or to lodge your complaint by visiting their page at <https://ico.org.uk/global/contact-us/>
